MACON

Dr. D. E. Richards of Scranton, Pa. preached and lectured at the Welsh Congregational church at Bevier last Sunday morning and that night at the Baptist church. At both places he preached in Welsh.

Roland, the little son of W. T. Jones of Bevier who had the side of his head cut which necessitated six stitches a few weeks ago is about well.

Thomas Richards of Butte, Montana, who had been attending as a delegate from that state the Republican convention in Chicago returned last Monday to visit relatives and friends in Bevier.

Last Tuesday a committee from Benton Lodge, K. of P. of Bevier went to Macon to buy a piano for the lodge. Miss Esther Davis, daughter of one of the committeemen was awarded from a Macon Music Co. $144.50 in a guessing game and she applied it on the piano.

By an agreement of parties to the litigation over the maintenance of bridges across the channels in the Chariton Valley, appealed from the Circuit Court, the Supreme Court has advanced the case on the docket in order that it may be finally determined at the October session.

Excitement broke out afresh on last Monday over the discovery of a possible clue to the murderer or murderers of the Welsh hermit, John B. Jones. Some things are the subject of a close investigation that may lead to criminally interesting development before Circuit court convenes again.

Lewis Parry was shot and dangerously wounded by John J. Jones on the sidewalks near their places of business last Monday evening. Jones stated that he and Parry and Bloodgood were at Macon Monday and returned that evening; that Parry had expressed some little feeling against Jones during the day; that while in his restaurant that evening Jones was called out by Parry; that expecting trouble Jones put his revolver in his pocket and stepped out; that in the conversation that followed Parry called him a liar and struck him in the jaw; Jones then pulled his revolver from his hip pocket and shot Parry in the breast. The bullet in its course narrowly missed Parry's heart. He is expected to recover. Jones has been arrested.

CARROLL

Last Monday night a thief made a raid on Mr. Burgers frying chickens near Carrollton but however they did not get away with any as the noise aroused the family and they went to see about them. Upon investigation Mr. Burger found four in a sack which the thief was preparing to take.

The roads in some places are bad in Carroll county, several bridges out and it is reported that in one place a farmer has plowed up the road near his home and planted it in potatoes, making it almost impossible to pass on horseback much less in a rig.

At the ice cream supper at the Baptist church at Wakenda the ladies took in about 23.80.

The farmers of Riverside neighborhood say they are busier than the men at Chicago were last week.

Harry Adkins who was working for Tom Sanders three miles east of Wakenda, narrowly escaped death last Friday. Sanders had sent Harry over to a neighbor to get a cultivator and had started home riding one of the horses hitched to the cultivator. The team became frightened and started to run Harry jumped from the horse he was riding and his foot caught in the harness and they dragged him about 100 yards. One of the horses kicked him in the back of the head cutting a gash in the scalp about two inches long.

While James Woolston, who is keeping bachelor hall on the J. E. Hardwick place northwest of Wakenda, went over to a nearby neighbors on business last Monday night he took his shot gun, as a few nights before some one had cut his harness too pieces while he was away from home and thinking they might undertake it again, and on returning home that evening and nearing the place saw some one run out of the house. He called for the party to stop and not doing so he fired at him. About this time another man stuck his head out of the window and told young Woolston to stop that if he came any nearer he would kill him. Woolston's gun was empty and he backed out and ran over to his brothers home and several of the neighbors went over to the house but the parties were gone.

W. H. Lotham of the Farmers Bank of Norborne went to St. Louis last week to have a growth on one of his eyes removed. The operation was a success but Mr. Lotham will remain a few weeks longer to take treatment.

P. H. Montgomery of Norborne got a bad fall last Friday about noon hours while papering the ceiling of the Lutheran church. He had rigged up a scaffold about 17 feet high but found that it was not quite high enough to reach the arch in the ceiling so he put a box on the scaffold which not being braced properly permitted the box to turn over throwing

Mr. Montgomery to the floor. His head had one wound and one ankle bone was broken and the other cracked. A stretcher was secured and he was carried home where he received medical attention.

George Kasser, the ten year old son of Martin Kasser of Norborne had one of his fingers cut off last week while out to G. C. Graves in the Cherry Valley township while fooling around a binder.

Joe Summers, of Route 5 of Norborne was in town the latter part of last week and had a long scalp wound dressed by one of the local physicians. On inquiry as to what had happened he said, "I went over to one of my neighbors to get him to help me in wheat harvest. We sat down and talked for a while when he suddenly got up, grabbed a hoe and ordered me off the place. I am not a foot racer so I didn't start right away. He grew angry at my delay and struck me with the hoe, the blade cutting a long gash in my scalp, so I came to town to have the wound dressed and that is all the story."
